Welcome
To The New Petroleum Club!

Val Britton, a celebrated artist from San Francisco, is the creator of the eye-catching piece in the elevator lobby. Val's works draw on the language of maps to connect to her father, a long-haul cross-country truck driver, who died when Val was young. She believes that mapping serves as a metaphor for searching the unknown in wide-open spaces and a trace of how we see where we've been. Our fascinating piece is a collage of paper shapes that hovers between two and three dimensions. It references landforms of the Gulf Coast area of Texas and Louisiana. This is one of five pieces of art commissioned through Kinzelman Art Consulting.
